

We respectfully acknowledge that we live and work on the traditional, ancestral and unceded territories of the xʷməθkʷəy̓əm (Musqueam), Skwxwú7mesh (Squamish) and səliłwətał (Tsleil-Waututh) Nations.

Like many others in the local business community, Oak Pine Design's commitment to reconciliation is developing and we strive to foster positive relationships with the First Nations communities we live and work in, and who have lived on these lands since time immemorial.

Through meaningful engagement and education, we advocate for greater diversity and inclusion and strive to implement the National Truth and Reconciliation Commission's calls to action in the workplace.

We are committed to advancing reconciliation within our community, and we encourage everyone to use September 30th as a day to honour residential school survivors and recognize the intergenerational impacts colonization has on local and urban Indigenous populations. To learn more about how to participate in the National Day for Truth and Reconciliation, please refer to the National Centre for Truth and Reconciliation's website for more resources:

<https://nctr.ca/>